Just another day at The Office

Everyone remembers their first day at The Office. Your initial encounter with Michael Scott may not have been love at first sight. After all, the no-filter Regional Manager of Dunder Mifflin Paper Company, Inc. did have a rather compulsive, and for the most part completely unwarranted, need to be praised and respected. However, from the time the first episode aired on NBC in the US in 2005 until his departure in season 7, he somehow managed to win over the hearts of not only his employees, but millions of viewers worldwide as well.

The mockumentary-style production gave the show that feeling of maybe-a-little-too-much-intimacy as it deliberately dragged us through cringe-worthy interactions between strongly defined personalities in side-splitting dialogues. We couldn't divert our eyes even if, or when, we wanted to. As "top dog in a fairly large pond," Michael and his diverse cast of employees navigated through corporate and personal triumphs and trials with varying degrees of success, hope, pettiness, humour, love, humility and/or delightful delusions of grandeur. We recognised a bit of our colleagues and a lot of ourselves in the dynamics and deeply lovable characters. They pulled us into their lives – flaws, idiosyncrasies and all – and kept us rooting for their redemption and vindication through nine seasons.

*"THEY SAY ON YOUR DEATHBED, YOU
NEVER WISH YOU SPENT MORE TIME AT THE
OFFICE, BUT I WILL. GOTTA BE A LOT BETTER THAN A DEATHBED."
- MICHAEL SCOTT*

The beauty in ordinary things

At the LEGO Group, we often feel we work for one of the best companies out there and, not surprisingly, we have a lot in common with Dunder Mifflin Paper Company, Inc. We love office pranks. We dress up for Halloween and theme parties. We celebrate birthdays and milestones. We have great (and some cheesy) motivational posters. We love to find ways to energise each other. We have charity runs, although none of them have come close to titles as awesome as Michael Scott's Dunder Mifflin Scranton Meredith Palmer Memorial Celebrity Rabies Awareness Pro-Am Fun Run Race for the Cure. We've had work crushes – like our very own "PB & J" (Pam Beesly and Jim), LEGO® Ideas designers Laura and Chris Perron who worked on this set together. But, as far as we know, no steaks have ever been fried on any of our coffee makers.

Wherever we work, whatever we do, what makes us love our jobs are all the ordinary little things we tend to take for granted. Like the colleagues who go out of their way to make us smile and laugh. Celebrate with us when we succeed. Show they care with little gestures. Unapologetically let us into their lives. Comfort us when we get frustrated or mess up. Some may even become our soup snakes. Sometimes, we're lucky enough to be that person for others, too. And who's to say what's ordinary, anyway?

"THERE'S A LOT OF BEAUTY IN ORDINARY THINGS.
ISN'T THAT KIND OF
THE POINT?"
- PAM BEESLY

Meet the fan designer

Jaijai Lewis (LEGO® Ideas name Lego The Office), a marketing professional from New York City, has worked on various versions of the model since 2014. Before this set, he submitted two other iterations, with both reaching the 10,000 LEGO Ideas supporters required to be considered for production. His last model is mainly based on the first seven seasons with Michael Scott as the "World's Best Boss" before the character left Dunder Mifflin:

"For me, it's a show I go to for comfort. It's hilarious, relatable and heartwarming. I've heard from thousands of supporters over the years that during moments of hardship, they will watch it to lift their spirits. Overall, I worked on this project for nearly seven years. I used behind-the-scenes photos, set blueprints and re-watched the show as references for my designs. It was a lot of fun to recreate classic moments from the show over the years. Even after I hit 10,000 votes, I continued adding new features to improve the model. One of my biggest changes was rescaling it to make the set smaller while keeping so many characters. I'm so grateful to the fans who came out to promote and vote for my latest designs, it really means a lot to me."

"IF I LOOK AT
IT OVERALL, I'VE BEEN WORKING ON THIS FOR NEARLY 7 YEARS."

Jaijai Lewis
and his submission

Meet the LEGO® Office staff

"Jaijai did a great job refining the scope and scale of the model, and we created the final layout and structure to capture as many iconic angles as possible, with room for 15 minifigures (and a cat). It was special being able to co-design this set with my wife, Laura; we felt we could play up the Jim and Pam dynamic. (Air high-five!) We didn't want to hold back on references, so there are extra stickers and accessories to recreate your favourite moments."

Chris Perron, LEGO® Model Designer

"This project let me combine three things I love: my husband (Chris), The Office and LEGO® bricks! We're huge fans of the show and worked out a lot of the references and jokes in the model over dinner conversations at home. On the tan shelf, we placed some personal touches like our wedding colours and some of Jaijai's favourite colours. I'm really happy with how the reception desk turned out – its curve is very iconic, and we wanted to get it just right!"

Laura Perron, LEGO® Model Designer

"My favourite part was creating the decorations around the office. I re-re-re-watched the show to get as many Easter eggs as possible. I was also excited about creating the 15 main characters, and I especially love that both Stanley's printed faces look 'Over It'! Each computer screen has specific references, like Pam and Jim messaging each other, Dwight checking his B&B Farm, Phyllis' 'Bob Vance, Vance Refrigeration' website and Michael playing Diego Sancho, LEGO® Senior Graphic Designer
